I wish also to state that while we are carrying out to the letter the instructions of the first chief, the situation is one that is misunderstood by the people. Already I have been made the bright of much criticism and my position has been enlarged upon by the correspondents, much to my embarrassment. Infantry in Solid Columns.

Behind the 12th, marched the compact, brown columns of the sixth and 16th infantry. Next, at a trot a field battery swang into line and then dropped to a slow pace behind the infantry. The deadly machine gum, packed on mules, attracted scarcely a look from uninitiated civilian spectators. Supply trains and ambulances rolled in a long line, bringing up the rear. Vast dust clouds except up from the line of march, at times obscuring the troops.

Soldiers Are Happy.

The feeling among the men seemed perspiring trooper, who as he harried past a group of civilian sightseers, exclaimed:

"We've got our chance at last." He grinned as he spoke.

A few women whose husbands were going to the front, watched the doparture, smiling while their busbands were still in sight, and then breaking into tears. One officer's wife, laughing, patted her husband's gistol into place.

It was almost exactly noon when the first of the cavalrymen trotted across the line.

Wounded Bandit Prisoners.

While the troops were going out, three automobile loads of Mexican prisoners auspects held in connection with Villa's raid, slumped down in the tonneaus. Some wounded There was no demonstration of any sort among the spectators over these prisoners.

Some wounded Mexicans were picked up yesterday in the country adjacent to Columbus. They apparently had been hiding out for several days Some of them probably were lit during fights with posses which scoured the Columbus country for several days after the raid.

17 MEXICANS ARRESTED ON COAST; RECRUITING CHARGED Los Angeles, Cal., March 16.—Seventeen Mexicans have been taken Into custody on their sival from San Diego. They were held by the police on suspicion of violation of pautrality through recruiting men for service with Villa in Mexico.

When the American troops crossed the Mexican line, Gen. Pablo Bertani, who had been stationed for the constitutional garrison at Palomas, had gone on to Gusman, to join other troops under the command of Gen. Giffieres to move from the northeast apon Villa.

The American troops after passing the night at Columbus are said to have begun their second day's march at sunrise today. The march south is said to be along the path that has been repeatedly blazed by Villa through northwestern Chihuahua.

A spur track has been built into the heart of the camp at Columbus and everything indicates from the lay of the land there that temporarily, at least, Columbus is to be the base for the punitive expedition.

Tomorrow Is St. Patrick's Day---

ST. PATRICK, the patron Saint of Ireland, was born about the year 389. He was a son of a deacon. Calpurnius. and the grandson of a presbyter named Potitus. His father was a middle-class landed proprietor and a decurion, who is represented as living at a place called Bannauenta. The only place of this name history knows of is Daventry, but it seems more probable that St. Patrick's home is to be sought near the Severn. still others contend that one of the three places called Banuen in Glamorganshire, is his real

He was evidently of an intensely spiritual nature, and in addition to the qualities which go to form a strong man of action, he must have possessed an enthusiasm which enabled him to surmount all difficulties. His importance in the history of Ireland and the Irish church consists in the fact that he brought Ireland into touch with western Europe and more particularly Rome, and that he introduced Latin into the church.

He died in 461. The place of his burial was a matter of dispute, in early Ireland, but it seems most likely that he was interred at Saul.

And just as St. Patrick was filled with qualities that made him a strong man of actionso is "The Popular" a strong store of action one in which you can place your fullest confidence and rest assured of always receiving a square deal.
